Man of Few Words
First Up, Then Down
Great Gondwanaland
The Richest Brothers?

General Johnson, whose business is finding jobs for President Roosevelt's unemployed, is "a man of few words," like the well known Highlander.

"I went to Detroit to get the automobile code—and got it."

That is almost as condensed as Caesar's veni, vidi, vici.

Asked what would happen to employers or others that "refused to go along with President Roosevelt's code," General Johnson replies, "They will get a sock on the nose," a new, simple way of solving great economic problems.

What was going to become of small stores obliged to pay "code" wages, asked an editor. General Johnson replies (borrowing from Shakespeare's well known statement about) "Men have died and worms have eaten them—but not from paying $12 a week for fourteen hours in a retail store."

"The fewer words, the better prayer," said Martin Luther.

Our buying and selling minds seem not even to know what they think is going to happen, here or in Europe. One day they buy, next day they sell. The dollar goes down, Europe says it is unsound. Then it goes up, and European monies drop.

Europe said "leaving the gold basis, America will flood the world with cheap dollars." Now Europe discovers that we have fewer dollars in circulation, by nearly forty millions, than we had on the gold basis.

Did you ever hear of Gondwanaland? It is not only real, but the biggest thing on earth barring the Pacific Ocean. Geologists in Washington want you to know about Gondwanaland, gigantic continent that disappeared below the ocean about 150,000,000 years ago.

That huge continent, as big as Europe, and Asia together, named for Gondwana, district in central Asia, may interest us when we begin exploring and exploiting treasures that lie below the water.

There are under sea in Gondwanaland great beds of coal, much iron, and heaven knows what else in the way of gold and other precious stuff.

[illegible] burgh is the richest family in the world, the combined fortunes of the Mellon brothers, according to the book, amounting to more than two billions of dollars.

It is easy to present such imaginary fortunes to a successful chosen few, but real figures are usually multiplied, once or twice.

Whatever the Mellons are worth, they, and their fathers before them, got it from productive, constructive work, building ships, railroads, factories, manufacturing plants of all kinds. What they have done has developed the country, created payrolls and, even in these changing days, that kind of work is generally approved.

Mexico has a "revival of prosperity" plan. Plutarco Elias Calles, Mexico's "Iron Man" and former President, will have charge of the undertaking, running over six years.

This country is gratified by the statement that Mexico includes in its plan a trade agreement with the United States.

General Calles tells 10,000 Mexican workmen that the world is about to face a most serious crisis and that Mexico will co-operate fully with other American countries.

Mexico looks forward to an "economic war among continents" and will naturally, stick with this continent.

It is unfortunate that Canada, by political alignment, is necessarily tied up with non-American interests.

The ideal "league of nations" would include everything on this continent from Terra del Fuego to the North Pole.

And that will come some day not by any absorption, but by natural, inevitable agreement. Meanwhile, all possible success to Mexico in her six-year plan.

Doctor de Terra, learned geologist of Yale University, says the earth is still shrinking as its interior heat diminishes and "wrinkling" as it shrinks. The giant Himalayas, Alps, Rockies, Andes and other mountain ranges are some of the wrinkles.

We, two-legged human microbes, are crawling around on the earth's "jacket of rock," of which the area is 196 million square miles, raising crops on a thin, fertile soil coating that covers the rock jacket, digging gold, iron, silver, copper from that jacket, shivering when a sudden slip or fold causes what we call an earthquake, shuddering when some volcanic safety valve explodes and lava flows.

Amaco Powerful Drama, Holds Audience Tense

Play Takes Spectators Through The Rise and Fall of Man and Factory

"Amaco," written by Martin Flavin, given under the superb direction of Edward Kuster held the audience tense both Friday and Sarurday nights at the Community Playhouse.

Nothing was missed in the play; the workman who started with pick and shovel and rose to the position of manager; the driving foreman pushing the men on for speed, speed; production and yet more production; the agitator; the strike; the prosperous laborer of 1929; the crushing of a weaker competitor; the crash of the stock market; the betrayal of the company by its bankers; the bread line; failure.

To Edward Kuster, great praise. They play was handled with such detail that the amateur touch was seen only in a very few minor points. The lighting was good; the actors themselves stayed "in character" while on the stage. Dr. Matzke was really Joe Skouras, the agitator and leader. Nestor Paiva was the man who "got on." F. O. Robbins was the owner of the competitive plant, pleading for his very existence. The audience did not feel they were acting but felt the unrolling of the powerful drama before them. The death of Adams, chairman of the board, played by Kuster himself, was so real that a gasp went up from every spectator. Queed, the petty politician, was realistically portrayed by Frank Hefling.

The cast included: David Matzke, Everett Sholund, Victor Kerney, Peter O'Crotty, Nestor Paiva, Milton Latham, William Williams, Millard Pierson, Scott Douglas, E. Franklin Dixon, Edward Kuster, John Gribner, Fred Robbins, Albert L. Van Houtte, Frank Hefling, John Catlin, John Middlesworth, Bernard Rowntree, Guy Ryker.

Committee of workmen in the Amaco plant: David Alberto, Frederick Bechdolt, Frederick Burt, William Gaskin, Helmuth Deetjen, James Hopper, Johan Hagemeyer, Edward Kuster, Robert Welles Ritchie, William Ritschel, Stephen Allan Reynolds, Frederick Preston Search, Frank Sheridan, Lincoln Steffens, Edward Weston, Harry Leon Wilson, Stanley Wood.

Telephone operators (off-tage): Ruth Norris Thompson, Margaret Middlesworth.

"Amaco" will be repeated next Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. Don't miss this great show.

The third person to score a hole in one on the Pacific Grove municipal golf course, J. Marsden Van Cott sank his ball in the cup on the fifth hole, using a mashie.

Automobile Accidents Mark Week-End Here

Frank Lane Crashes Into Creamery; Saturday Night and Is Badly Injured

Coming at a high rate of speed down Carmel hill Saturday evenning, Frank Lane, to avoid striking a car turning in from Mission, ran his car into the door of the Carmel dairy, badly injuring himself, the building and the car, as well as cutting some bystanders with flying glass.

Mr. Lane was first taken to a Carmel hospital but Monday was removed to the county hospital in Salinas, after a piece of the skull had been removed to aid in his recovery.

Another Accident Sunday

Because he failed to stop when he hit a car on Ocean avenue Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, W. F. Tatman of Alamo, Calif., had to appear before Judge Wood Monday where he was given a fine of $15, after being locked up Sunday night. No one was injured in the collision. Delbert Main was driving the other car.

This accident occurred at the same point as the accident of Saturday night, and in fact, where there have been several accidents and near acidents this summer. This has made those who are in favor of putting the post office at the foot of the hill pause and think, some feeling that it would greatly endanger the lives of all citizens, especially the children and aged.

Marin L. Taylor of San Francisco came into the clutches of the law Saturday by parking on the wrong side of Dolores street.

For reckless driving on Ocean avenue, Ray D. Walker of Watsonville will have to appear before Judge Wood by August 11th [illegible]

Flute To Be Featured At Concert Tuesday

Rare Opportunity Offered to Hear Five Great Artists In One Evening

If a quartet comprising such artists as Penha, Abas, Weiss and Linsley, could be said to feature another artist, the Penha Piano Quartet will feature Merrill Jordan, flutist at their next concert, the fourth of the sumer series to be given by the Carmel Music Society at Sunset school auditorium next Tuesday night.

On this, the second appearance of the quartet in the series, the audience wil have an opportunity to hear the flute in combination with the strings, which is acknowleged to be something extraordinarily fine in chamber music.

In Roussel, trio for flute, viola and cello, Penha, one of the few great 'cellists of the world, Jordan and Weiss, will delight their hearers.

On the program Tuesday evening will also be heard Brahms Opus 60 and Dvorak, piano quartet.

To hear any one of these five artists is a rare treat, and to hear them in concert is an opportunity of a lifetime.

And don't forget, you may hear their Tuesday night's program by going to open rehearsal at Denny-Watrous gallery next Monday night. Only ten cents for members of the Music society and 40 cents for others.

LEGION DRUM CORPS TO DEFEND CHAMPIONSHIP

Kuster Says Theater Carmle's Own in 1934

Community Plays May Be Seen In Model Theater Beginning Next Year

Edward Kuster has come forth with an announcement that is of interest to every Carmel citizen in regard to the former Golden Bough theater, now known as the Carmel theatre. Those who attended Amaco read the following on the programs:

The "loveliest theatre in America," Carmel's theatre of the Golden Bough, became a motion picture house, as a matter of business necessity, some five years ago. Under the designation, "Carmel Theatre" a chain corporation now exhibits talking pictures every night in the year—the huge sky-dome stands back of the screen, invisible, and one of the most flexible lighting systems in the country lies idle. Why, then, is "Amaco" said to be performed by the "Golden Bough" players?

The answer is that at the expiration of the present motion picture lease the Theatre of the Golden Bough will once more become Carmel's community theatre. Furthermore, those who have regretted its loss during these latter years will be glad to learn that by special arrangement with the lessee the theatre will be available now and then during the summer months, beginning 1934, for stage productions. The lease will expire in 1936.

Carmel Pistol Club To Hold Barbecue Sunday

Rifle and Pistol Range to be Provided; Swimming and Horse-Back Riding for Guests

The Carmel Pistol Club is arranging a barbecue to be given at the Rancho Carmelo, located about fourteen miles up the Carmel Valley, at noon, Sunday, August thirteenth. There will be a rifle and pistol range where those interested may shoot for prizes with guns and ammunition furnished by the club on payment of a small fee, facilities for horseback riding, and a swimming pool although it will be necessary for you to bring your own suit.

A professional barbecue cook has been engaged in order that the specially selected beef may receive the treatment that it deserves. The standard accessories will go with the beef. No one need go away hungry.

The members of the pistol club are putting a great deal of time and effort on this affair in hopes of making it an annual event that will attract people from all over this section of the state and someday offer a program of target matches that will rival shoots given in other parts of California.

Jean Charlot; Painter, Exhibits at Gallery

Artist Born in France but Has Been Adopted by Mexico As Her Own

"One of the great painters of Mexico," was the description Senor Enrico Bravo Mexican consul gave of Jean Charlot when he introduced him to the people who had gatheerd at Denny-Watrous gallery Sunday afternoon to see Charlot's pictures and hear him lecture on Mexican art.

Although Charlot is of French parentage and was born in France he has lived in Mexico so long and has so absorbed the spirit of that country that Mexico now claims him as her own.

Mr. Charlot spoke with great simplicity and humor. He told of the first frescoes of Mexico city and of his relations with Diego Rivera along this line.

Mr. Charlot has recently been on an archeological expedition in Southern Mexico under the Carnegie Institution.

The "Mexican" artist's work is still on exhibition at the gallery and is attracting large crowds who are much interested in his style.

Mr. Charlot is an old friend of Edward Weston and is a guest at his home.

CARMEL BUSINESS WOMEN DISCUSS RECOVERY ACT

Children's Concert Was Huge Success Tuesday

No Child Barred from Lack of Money; Society Looking Into Future

The Carmel Music Society has again come to the fore for the good of Carmel. And it would have done your heart good to see those youngsters gathering in at Sunset school Tuesday afternoon for a program of their very own.

Although the admission price was 25 cents, no child was barred for lack of money, tickets for free distribution having been passed out to members of the P.-T. A. members of the school board and other interested parties.

One generous man left $5 with the committee to purchase tickets for any twenty children who wished to go but whose parents did not feel they could send them, while any number of women gathered in groups of three to five children and took them to the concert.

Four Highlands ladies headed the list by buying 35 tickets and bringing in every pupil of the Highlands school.

The number of Junior associates of the society has grown by leaps and bounds these past few days and the first eight rows in the auditorium were roped off for the seating of the following associates:

Barbara Bolin, Partick John Crichton, Pamela Dormody, Stephanie Glasell Doud, Peter Gillingham, Carol Goodrich, Chauncey S. Goodrich, Adeline Guth, Max Hagemeyer, Houston Hannon, Arthur Hately, Jr., Jonathan Hatley, Peter Hateley, Mary Henderson, Teddy Marble, Anne Martin, Mortimer Henderson, Anna Teresa Hudson, Warren Johnson, Thorne Kinsey, Cynthia Nancy Klein, Jacqueline Jane Klein, June Kocher, Colin Kuster, Shim Kuster, Edgar Leslie, Stewart Martin, James Midkiff, Jane Millis, Jane Ellen Parker, John Plank, Timothy Plank, Louise Prince, Mary Riley, John Douglas Short, Jr., Kraig Hathaway Short, William Hathaway Short, Richard B. Simpson, Barclas Spence, Marilyn Sullivan, John Todd, John Peregrine White, Rhys Williams, Emma Ann Wishart, Joyce Whitcomb, Mast Wolfson.

The Monterey Peninsula Orchestra, under direction of Michel Penha, the Carmel Junior String Quartet, and Marilyn Doty, child prodigy furnished the entertainment.

This, the first children's concert, was a success, and should the Carmel Music Society decide to put on such another afternoon they will receive even a more hearty co-operation from Carmel citizens.

CARMEL MERCHANTS WILL ABIDE BY N.R.A. CODES

Practically every firm in Carmel has expressed a willingness to coopeprate in the N.R.A. movement. While it is true that Carmel is not an industrial town and the great majority of the business houses are run by members of the family of the owner, places have been made for at least four new employes. Mrs. Florence Leidig has placed three new clerks on her list and a new clerk has been added in Merle's Treasure Shop.

FEDERAL ALLOCATION FOR COAST HIGHWAY MADE

It was rumored this week that funds from the government had been allocated to the Carmel-San Simeon highway, but no definite announcement of details has been made.

A car slipped its moorings Tuesday on Ocean avenue, in front of the Pine Inn and ran against a tree and into a rock enclosed space. It was necessary to send for a wrecker to get it back into the street. Stringers do not seem to realize the necessity of setting the brakes tight on the hills of Carmel as some accident like this occurs frequently.

INTERESTING CARMEL

Interesting things about Carmel

Among the interesting visitors to Carmel are Rev. and Mrs. T. Preston and their daughter, Miss Barbara, of Pasadena, who will spend the summer here. The Prestons were doing missionary work in China, located at Chung Shaw in the province of Hoo Nan, the center of the revolution.

The coolies were shot at their very door step and their bodies lay there for days, no one daring to interefere. They fled from that place in three hours' time under the escort of the British guard.

Mrs. Preston tells some interesting things of the industrial end of Mission work. She taught the women to do fancy work and while they were working taught them Christianity. This, she said, is the only way to reach the coolie women.

A hold-up in Carmel Valley? That's too great a stretch of imagination—yet it has not been such a long time ago that one of the most romantic figures of those not so far distant days flourished in and about not only Carmel Valley, but Monterey. In fact, Tuburcio Vasquez, the one of whom we write, was a well known figure in Monterey where he frequently attended dances. As the story of his life unfolds, one feels the spirit of mischief that actuated his life of banditry.

One incident alone is sufficient to emphasize this: One day in his travels, he stopped at a cabin at a place called Los Pilarcitos, "Little Willows," located near the mouth of the Salinas river. Here he called for food. It was the home of a poor widow with four small children. The woman asked who he was and upon being told, exhibited great fear. Tuburcio told her not to be afraid. that he had just stopped for food. She placed before him a dish of beans and one-half of a tortilla, and then became so agitated that she burst into tears.

Tuburcio asked what was the matter. She then told him that two men held a mortgage on her place for $1500 and as she had no possible way of raising this amount, she and her children would be turned out of their home the following Wednesday. He thanked her for the food, said it was amply sufficient and also said for her not to worry but to trust in God.

She sent her son for water for him to wash with as was the custom after a meal. The water had to be carried about a half mile and when the boy had returned and Turbucio was washing his hands, he gave to the woman a money belt containing exactly the amount required to pay her mortgage, $1500, telling her to be sure to get a receipt.

When the poor widow tried to thank him he told her not to thank him but that her thanks should be given to the God in Heaven. He then departed.

The two skinflints arrived promptly the following Wednesday, prepared to shed crocodile tears with the poor widow but, to their dismay and chagrin, she demanded of them a receipt for the amount paid in full. This they gave her as there was no way in which they could avoid it, and started home with the money.

Only a short while had they traveled when they were held up by a certain masked man who took away the money they had just received. The widow had her receipt. The men bore a reputation for being a little more than sharp in their business dealings, and Tuburcio? . . . . .

Well, he had the satisfaction of a good deed well done.

When he was a youngster he was always the one to take a dare, do a mischievous deed and since that reputation clung to him as he grew older, many deeds were attributed to him of which he was not guilty.

Later on, he decided that he might as well have the game as the name and one day helped himself to another man's horse,

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

One of the show places of the Conservation Camp at Sequoia is an old cabin which was used by the famous bandits, Sontag and Evans, in early days.

More than 50,000 persons are estimated to have attended the annual Salinas rodeo, the largest crowd in the history of the annual affair, it is said.

Appointment of Charles W. Lyon, Sacramento labor leader and editor, as field manager for the United States Reemployment Service in Northern California was announced here recently by John Stellern of Los Angeles, State director of that branch of Federal recovery work.

Supplied by the Legislature with a 1933-35 budget of only $30,000, the State Narcotics Bureau will have to operate with four inspectors only on and after August 1, Chief Walker has announced. Eight inspectors and three clerks will be dropped.

Fifteen million dollars will be asked of the federal government to bring housing and equipment facilities in state institutions to a point of efficiency, Dr. J. M. Toner, state director of institutions has declared. Increase of 10,000 beds in seven mental hospitals is Toner's major objective.

Old Ironsides is coming back to San Francisco. Mayor Rossi received word from Lieutenant Commander Henry Hartley, now commanding the U. S. S. Constitution, that the historic war vessel is scheduled to pay a return visit from September 2 to 15.

Breaking all California records, the legislature overrode seventeen of Governor James Rolph's vetoes this year—three in the May session and fourteen in July. Of these, eight were senate bills and nine assembly measures. And these were the first vetoes overriden in California since 1889.

A new disease of Douglas fir is reported by Ralph E. Smith, professor, and N. H. Hansen, assistant professor of plant pathology in the University of California College of Agriculture. This is a gall disease of the twigs and stems, and has been observed in parts of Napa, Lake, Santa Cruz, Amador and Siskiyou counties, in marginal localities for the growth of Douglas fir.

Recommendation for a bond issue totaling $27,585,000 was made by the San Francisco Mayor's citizens' advisory committee of 79, following a session, at which four projects, totaling $4,025,000, were unanimously approved. The projects are those which the city will present to the Federal Government for consideration in the NIRA program as San Francisco's contribution to the national program for recovery.

Dropping from an 11,000-foot ceiling almost two miles before he pulled the cord which opened his parachute, "Spud" Manning, Los Angeles delayed-parachute jumper, thrilled a crowd gathered at the Long Beach Municipal Airport recently. When he had fallen more than 10,000 feet the great white spread of his parachute halted his tumble from the clouds—less than 1000 feet above the earth. He then floated gently to a landing without mishap.

Using old-time mining methods, a group of Chinese miners is mining placers along the Klamath River, located in one of the oldest gold fields of California. Power is generated by current wheels in the river, with one wheel driving a derrick which hoists gravel from river bed to sluice. Another drives a Chinese pump. Power costs are practically nil, and the orientals are said to be making good money where white miners failed.

Headquarters of the California Racing Commission will be in Sacramento, it has been definitely stated by William P. Roth of San Francisco, who with Carleton Burke and J. A. McNaughton of Los Angeles, was confirmed as a commissioner by the state senate. Already the commission has received an application for a permit for pari-mutuel betting from the directors of the state fair, to be held at Sacramento in September. Because Roth drew the long, or four-year term as commissioner, it is believed he will be named chairman of the commission.

Peter P. Myhand of Merced, the member of the State Board of Agriculture who represents the cotton interests, withdrew his resignation as a member of the board which he had submitted some time ago. Myhand resigned because Gov. Rolph vetoed the bill that would have placed an 8-cent tax on coconut oleomargarine and because he thought the Governor had not issued a proclamation concerning "cotton week." The Governor convinced Myhand the proclamation had been issued.

Mrs. Mary Vansant spent a week in San Francisco enjoying a good rest. Last Sunday she visited her daughter, Mrs. George Randles at Los Gatos.

An average of 10,908 persons daily enjoyed cooling plunges in the sixteen municipal swimming pools of Los Angeles one week recently, according to figures compiled by the Playground and Recreation Department.

The nudist colony fad has come to California and to stay. At least that's the consensus of opinion of some thirty odd naked sun worshippers—most of whom are San Franciscans—located in the wilds of Shasta county.

Californians last year consumed 10,086,102 gallons of ice cream, or nearly two gallons for every person in the State. It required the services of 773 people to make and distribute the ice cream which was made in 192 plants. Wages paid were $1,198,236 and the wholesale value of the output was $10,489,546.

Diamonds have been found in California. First finds were in the placer mining days, the rough stones being discovered in the sluice boxes. The largest diamond recorded weighed slightly more than two carats. Other gems found and used by lapidaries are the tourmaline, beryle, kunzite, topaz, garnet and California jade.

Plans are being made in San Jose for the erection of a $25,000 structure, marking the eighth building group which forms the North American headquarters of the Rosicrucian organization at Naglee avenue. The new building will be a Roman basilica sheltering an outdoor auditorium, with a central fountain as one of the decorative features.

Roger Mertz, 6 years of age, of 3536 Smith avenue, Bell, claims the distinction of raising the second largest sunflower in the United States. The gigantic bloom topped a stalk of eleven feet seven inches, and weighs ten pounds. It was planted by Roger early this spring. He obtained the seed from his father's chicken feed. The little fellow watered and cared for the plant himself.

J. Langdon Erving of Montecito, who, in 1924, married Alice Rutherford of San Francisco, died in his home at Santa Barbara after an extended illness. He left his widow and a son, Langdon Jr., and a daughter, Miss Alice. For many years Erving was connected with the Mexican Cable Company. He was national saber champion and junior national foils champion in 1902.

The United Hop Growers of California, in session at Santa Rosa, boosted the pay of hop pickers from ¾ of a cent to 1 cent a pound, and announced an agreement not to enlarge hop acreage in the State. Control of the crop from 28,000 acres of hops is in the hands of 98 growers, Ben B. Steele, president of the association said, declaring that nearly 100 per cent of these growers already have signed the agreement.

Maj. John Macready set a speed of 197.5 miles an hour for three kilometers in a stock model airplane in Alameda recently, which he asserts is a new record for the distance and type of craft. Representatives of the National Aeronautic Association said the speed will be reported to association headquarters in Washington. They said the present record of 196.2 miles an hour was set by a French flyer at Le Bourget, Paris, in 1930.

The state board of equalization offices look more like an employment bureau than like a public tax assessing agency. By letter, wire, proxy and personal call, no less than 1,200 Californians descended on the board with applications for jobs in enforcement of the new tax laws. The board now makes assessments on utility gross receipts, gasoline, beer and truck taxes and, if the governor approves new legislation, will soon be administering the sales and income taxes. Board officials say they now have eighty-five employes and under the expanded program require between 250 and 400.

For reasons of legislative economy, the interium assembly committee to promote legislative economy will not be permitted to print its final report. After investigating legislative conditions throughout the nation at some little expense, the committee came in just before the gavel fell on the recent session with a request to have its full report, recommendations, findings and proposals—112 pages of them—printed at state expense. Assembly officers estimated the cost would be at least $500. Speaker Walter J. Little turned down the request, characterizing it as "too expensive economy."

Nearly one-third of the total perishable shipments over the railroads of the United States last year originated in California. With approximately 95 per cent of the totals reported, California shipments were 259,780 carloads, compared to 838,896 for the rest of the country. Oranges took the lead in 1932 as they did in 1931, replacing grapes at the head of the list. The five leading product shipped were as follows: Oranges, 60,947 cars; grapes, 42,183; lettuce, 32,915; melons, 21,612 and lemons, 15,730.

But in all the chronicle of his deeds and misdeeds, there was no murder charge against him and he always took from those of questionable repute and gave to the poor and setting. A Carmel man went into a certain store on Dolores. He found himself short of change and gave an IOU for 30 cents. He told his wife. She went and paid the 30 cents. The man himself went in and paid the 30 cents. They got together agin, found out what had been done. She went in and got her 30 cents back. He went and got his 30 cents back. They compared notes and went again TOGETHER and paid the 30 cents. Was that finance?

A Chimpanzee Baby
A Modern Tragedy
Nine More Great Women
Yes, We Have Money

Do not worry if your child happens not to be an infant prodigy. Frank Damrosch, who has studied many prodigies in his musical institute, says he "pities the prodigies," with few exceptions. Too early development often means a sudden cessation of development.

In schools where children of a race less highly developed study with children of a higher race, the latter are usually behind in their studies at six or seven years of age. Then they go ahead and those that were leading, go no farther mentally. Facts do not encourage the belief that "all men are created equal."

An interesting experiment has been made by Prof. W. N. Kellogg and his wife, who took a seven months' old female chimpanzee named Gua from Yale University and for nine months studied that baby ape, comparing its progress with their own 9 months' old boy. The result is told in a book called "The Ape and the Child," published by Whittlesey House.

The 9 months baby monkey showed more intelligence, better memory than the human child, was more obedient, took medicine more willingly, helped to dress itself. The ape was also more jealous and violent, becoming furiously angry when children laughed or pointed at it.

But at the end of nine months, with the ape 16½ months' old and the child 18 months, the latter had gone ahead of its monkey playmate. The ape at that age had learned about as much as it would ever know, the child had only begun to learn.

There are among human beings differences as great as that between the Kelloggs' child and Gua the chimpanzee baby.

There are tragedies, real and modern, that make fiction seem feeble. James McGuire, Pittsburgh policeman, heard, on the radio "child in serious condition at Magee Hospital. Blood transfusion needed. Any patrolman wishing to offer self, proceed at once to hospital."

McGuire said to his mate, touring the city with him in search of criminals, "that's tough," and hurried to the hospital.

Doctors tried his blood, found it had just the quality needed by the baby, and no wonder.

When McGuire approached the baby, his arm washed with alcohol ready for puncture, he saw an infant, prematurely born, in the arms of his own wife, and the baby was his son, his fifth child.

McGuire gave more than a pint of his blood, showing the desperate need of the infant and returned to work, listening at each police radio station for any further call. There was none. The child was dead.

President Loree, of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, trustee of New Jersey's College for Women, offered a prize for the best list of the nine greatest women "in Western civilization." Miss Marjorie Newmark, of North Plainfield, won with this list:

Florence Nightingale, Clara Barton, Susan B. Anthony, George Eliot, Sarah Bernhardt, Mary Harris Jones (American Sociologist), Viera Ivanovia Zasulitch (Russian revolutionist), Jane Addams and Marie Curie.

In that list Susan B. Anthony is the best name. Harriet Beecher Stowe and Julia Ward Howe might have been squeezed in somewhere among the American women.

But if asked which are the ten greatest painters, or writers, you name those that painted the ten finest pictures, or wrote the ten greatest books.

To find the ten greatest women, name the ten greatest men "in Western civilization," and in their mothers you have the ten greatest women.

You judge a painter by his pictures, a soldier by his victories, a woman by her children. If a painter said "painting is not good enough for me, I want to be a picture frame," you would pity him. The same with a woman who says "having fine children is not enough for me, I want to be a statesman."

Mr. Woodin, Secretary of the Treasury, needed for Uncle Sam one thousand million dollars on five-year notes, paying two and seven-eighths interest, plus four hundred millions of "nine-month certificates" paying less than 1 per cent. These Government debts, for the first time, are payable "in lawful money," which means nice paper, not gold.

Nevertheless, Mr. Woodin was offered five thousand millions when he only asked for one thousand. Somebody seems to think our lawful money is sound, and that President Roosevelt knows what he is doing.

Professor Eagleton, of New York University, wants "the right to declare war taken from nations."

You might just as well suggest taking from dogs the right to bite.

CAROL EBERTS VEAZIE IN PLAYREADING SATURDAY

Carol Veazie, well known in New York for her work on the staff of the Neighborhood Playhouse, as an actress, coach, reader of plays, lecturer on voice, and platform reading, will give a reading of Sidney Howard's latest play, "Alien Corn," on Saturday evening next, August 12, in the Denny-Watrous gallery.

Last summer, Mrs. Veazie gave a series of play readings in England and this last winter had an extensive series in New York City.

"Alien Corn" is an absorbing play, dealing with the soul of a musician to whom life became as alien as the fields of Boaz to Ruth, when severed from its musical experience.
